MacHack 17
The Annual Conference for Leading Edge Developers
June 2002
Dearborn, Michigan

What is MacHack?
MacHack is a conference that, in its fifteenth year, remains centered around cutting edge software development. Each year the conference brings together well-known names in the software business, as well as many students and upstarts whose names we'll know soon enough, and fosters interaction between all of the attendees. MacHack's uniqueness derives from the informal feel of the conference and the LIVE coding that occurs around-the-clock during the conference.

What's happening at MacHack 2002?
Topics for the 2002 conference include networking, rapid application and cross platform development. MacHack will also feature a variety of round tables and sessions of interest to both the corporate and indepent software developer. Of course, expect lots of coverage of What's-Happening-Now™.

What about the Hack Contest?
The MacHax Group™ will again be sponsoring the Hack Contest. This event pits all comers against each other for the Victor™ A-Trap Award. This award is given to the most clever, show-worthy, dramatic or useless code generated at the conference. Technical prowess is important, but showmanship is key. Visit the conference website for more on the wonders of the Hack Contest, including winning hacks from years past.

Great! How can I come?
Well, below is the registration form. Fill it out and send it in. There are discounted rates for students age 25 or below assuming that you can prove you ARE a student (copies of current student IDs or class schedules will workfor this). All attendees get theT-Shirt, CD-ROM and access to conference events. Full price (not student) attendees get the meal package as well. More details are available on the conference web site.
